The ma jority of these, he says, keep the milk in original containers, and these in iceboxes, which, as a rule, are clean and contain nothing but butter of of drinks, or both. Between forty-five and fifty tests were made, and only two cases were which there was reason to think the quality of the milk was intentionally changed. ne case the milk had been skimmed, and in the other water had been added. The greater part of July was devoted to putting out and receiving ap-plications and giving permits to sell milk. So far 21 permits have been granted, which represent $5 cent of the milk dealers that he has been able discover in the city. At different times tests have been made with the lactometer, but thus far milk has been found which shows lower than 6 degrees, specific gravity 1.028. Mr. Sloane also has blanks with which to notify milk dealers who serve to families when infected with contagious When a case of contagion is reported the milk dealer's name is ascertained and notice is ent calling his attention to the article and section in the code which provides that in these cases milk shall be delivered only in vessels furnished by the family. The members of the Board listened attentively to the report. Health Officer Banker reported that during the month of July there were marriages, 80 births, 91 deaths and 24 cases of contagious diseases-11 of diphtheria, 9 of scarlet ever and 4 of typhoid fever. The rival factions in the Republican caucus which on Saturday last waged such a fierce fight, again showed their hands in opposition to each other in the school election. The total vote of 550 is the largest ever polled at a school election. From the opening to the closing of the polis, a period of five hours, there was a steady line of voters, many of whom were challenged and compelled to swear in their votes. The street corner near the polling-place was crowded with workers, and had the appearance it generally has on a general election day. Mr. Long was opposed by the leaders of the Miller faction, who supported William H. Gedney and Charles Hammond. Charles H. Chambers was elected clerk to the Board without opposition. At the annual school meeting the budget presented by the Board of Education, amounting to $20,000, was adopted. A DREAM OF BARE FEET.

HOW PRESIDENT CHARLES, OF KNEIPP VEREIN NO. 1, WOULD CURE DISEASE.

HE WOULD THROW THE PARKS OPEN TO A BARE-FOOTED MULTITUDE, AND HUMAN IMAS

WOULD THEN BE TRAMPLED OUT

IN THE DEWY GRASS. Henry F. Charles, president of Kneipp Verein No. 1 of the City of New-York was a terday. This society is the first of a large number to be organized, whose object is to be the pagation of the principles embodied in the wonderful water-cure system originated by Father bastian Kneipp, of Woerishofen, Bavaria. Charles was made the president of the society by son of the fact that he was cured of a long standing nervous trouble by the water treatmen and at once became one of the most enthusiastic followers of this rehool of cures. The cause of the No. 42 Bond-st., yesterday, was not due directly, however, to his recovery from a nervous disorder the opening of the office in the morning even unto the going down of the sun Mr. Charles was hard pressed with questions from hungry, anxious individuals regarding the chances of the Parl Commissioners granting a request made by the society for permission to walk barefoot in the grass One of the main remedies suggested by Father Kneipp for all nervous troubles and "congestion blood to the head," as Mr. Charles puts it, is a walk in bare feet, taken early in the morning o eventide, when the dew is on the grass. Kneipp Verein has now over a hundred members New-York, and several of them have attempted to follow out the rules of the cure by walking barefooted in the grass in Central Park, with the result that certain of the Park policemen have had an extra amount of trouble on their hands, while several neophytes in barefooted walking have been unable to test the famous cure. Under these cruel circumstances Mr. Charles addressed the following letter to the Park Commissioners:

Dear Sir: The members of the Kneip; Verein No. 1, of New-York, beg of you to be kind enough and to designate for them a convenient spot on the lawns of one of our public parks where the adherents and disciples of the Kneip; cure are permitted to walk barefoot in the early dawn or in the ted to walk barefoot in the early dawn or in the evening on the grass.

Many members of our society complain that whenever they attempt to take this most healthy of all exercises they are confronted with the prohibitory sign: "Keep off the grass." Now, what we want is to get on the grass, especially when it is dewy. Yours respectfully.

HENRY F. CHARLES.

President of the Knelpp Verein No. 1, von New-York, 42 Bend-st.

While no reply had been received up to last night, Mr. Charles is confident that when the Park Commissioners give the matter their careful consideration they will grant the request. This belief is based upon the fact that in England, France and Germany all the grass plots have been thrown open for the benefit of the barefooted populace. These nations have come to a realization of the im-portance of the application of air, sunshine and water to the feet of their people. Barefooted no-bility, barefooted mechanics, barefooted cab drivbarefooted actors, in fact, barefooted people of all kinds and descriptions, rub their big toes to gether on any and all dewy grass plo's they can find in these foreign countries, and why should not the afflicted of this country enjoy the same prive? Mr. Charles argues that the parks of the city are fer the convenience and health of the populace. If the cure of diseases can be effected through the means of barefooted perambulation, city are for the convenience and health of the populace. If the cure of diseases can be effected through the means of barefooted perambulation, then what greater public good could be accomplished than to throw wide open the public parks for the benefit of the shoeless multitude? There could be but little damage done. Of course, if it was in Chicago it would be different. Chicago people will have to be content with walking barefooted on the snow. No grass could live after once being trodden upon by a Chicago feot.

As a beginning, Mr. Charles thinks that a plot of grass 200 feet square in two of the city's parks, one on the East Side and one on the West Side, will give ample room for the exercise of the present supply of "Trilbirs" It is a sport for kings, as well as peasants, and all are expected to Join in and amble without shoes and stockings upon the festive greensward. It his enthusiasm Mr. Charles claims that in a little while the Kneipp-Vercinists will discount the bicyclists in point of numbers, and as regards determination, enthusiasm and earnesiness in the success of their cause, will throw a shadow on the present free-silver craze. When it was pointed out that if such were the case it would be necessary to tear down some of New-York in order to grow grass for the ever-increasing horde to walk upon, Mr. Charles replied smillingly: "Ah, but I will not cross any of dose bridges till I had come to dem."

Mr. Charles says that people must be careful about making a rash break with their bare feet in the grass. People who do this have the "snuffles" and give the cure up immediately, calling it a fake. One must cultivate the barefoot habit in his parler on the carpet. Then try the hall. Next venture on the front steps. Follow this up with a stroll on the cobhestones in the street. Next try the grass in your backyard, if you have one. If not, rent a house with a backyard, so that your effort to learn the system will not be spoiled by a missing link. At this point the patient is ready for the delights of the de

THE MURDERED WOMAN BURIED

CURIOUS CROWD AT MRS. BOCK'S FUNERAL -A MAN ARRESTED ON SUSPICION IS DISCHARGED - NO CLEW TO THE MURDERER.

The funeral of Annie Bock, who was murdered by some unknown person in her apartments, at No. 207 East Twenty-first-st., at an early hour on Tuesday morning, was held at her home yester-day. The police had several theories about the murder, but apparently no clew to the murderer. The funeral brought a crowd of curious people about the house, and a policeman was stationed in front of it to preserve order. The funeral was conducted according to the rites of the Jewish re-ligion. A number of women crowded into the room where the body was lying in a coffin, about an hour before the funeral took place. They were mostly of the murdered woman's class, and, ac-cording to the Jewish custom, they dropped coins in a small cask placed at the head of the coffin. These coins, as well as the dead woman's clothin the room when the murder was discovered, were buried with the body. The funeral services were buried with the body. The funeral services were conducted by an undertaker. Bock, the alleged husband of the murdered woman, followed the husband of the murdered woman, followed the hearse in a hack to Mount Washington Cemetery, where a plot had been purchased for the burial. The police had a man under arrest yesterday whom, it was thought, knew something about the murder. It was found to be a false clew, however, and the prisoner was quickly discharged. The man's name was entered on the police blotter as Mortimer Goldman, twenty-two years old, a pawnbroker, of Macon, Gu. Goldman was arrested at a hotel in the Bowery on evidence furnished by Rosa Schwartz, of No. 316 East Eleventh-st., who was a friend of the murdered woman. Miss Schwartz told the police that Goldman was an old friend of the Bock woman, and said that the latter had told her on several occasions that she feared Goldman would sooner or later kill her, as he had often threatened to do so. Goldman recently came from Macon, Ga., where he is said to be a pawn-broker. It was said that since he came to this city Goldman had spent much of his time in the company of the Bock woman, and that he had been seen going into the house where she lived a number of times. Miss Schwartz said that she thought he was the man whom she saw with the Bock woman on the night the latter was murdered. The police have two other women who saw Mrs. Bock and a man get off a Third-ave, cabie-car at Twenty-first-st, and go to Mrs. Bock's flat. This man was of medium size, stout, and of a complexion so dark that those who saw him took him to be a Spaniard or a Cuban. They stopped at a Trustand on the corner and bought some fruit before entering the house. The police say further that this man left the house in company with Mrs. Bock shortly before midnight on Monday night, and that about an hour later she returned in company with Arns though at mid that he was acquainted with the Bock woman. He said that he had not seen her for five or six days. He said that he was a respectable ma conducted by an undertaker. Bock, the alleged husband of the murdered woman, followed the Mayor Strong yesterday received from Commis sioners of Accounts Seth Sprague Terry and Rodney S. The Consolidation Act provides or the payment of money to the asylum at the rate of 28 cents a day for each child received and maintained there, and $18 a month for each ho ess and needy mother who nurses her child in the asylum or nurses other children there. The in vestigation by the Commissioners of Accounts has shown that the overpayments and overcharges

Third-For mothers as nursing their own children for months after the dates of the deaths of their respective children, as shown by the records of the asylum.

An examination of the bills rendered by the Asylum from January 1, 1890, to June 30, 1895, and of the records of the asylum for the same period, and the sworn testimony of its officers and employes appearing before us, show that during that period the asylum rendered bills to the city for $16,731 62 more than the correct amount, and that bills for such incorrect amount were audited by the Controller and paid by the city. The asylum is entitled to credits in other cases in which it failed to charge the city with amounts to which it failed to charge the city with amounts to which it failed to charge the city with amount of such credits being $300.95. The net amount of the overpayments is, therefore, $18,370.67. Since the discovery of these overpayments the Controller has withheld moneys due the asylum to an amount more than sufficient to relimburse the city therefor.

Officials of the asylum gave ready assistance the Commissioners of Accounts in the investigation and did not seek to withhold any information on the ubject. The Commissioners express the opinion that the overcharges and overpayments might have been prevented if there had been a more careful auditing of the bills, and they also say "it appears hat the work required of the Examiner of Acc of Institutions was greater than one man could perform properly." The present treasurer has stated that when he took office he found it had been the custom of the asylum to charge the city for the maintenance of women whose own children had died, but were nursing other children; that the deaths of such children appeared on the face of the bills audited by the Controller; that he had mentioned on several occasions to the Controller's employes who audited the bills the fact that such charges who audited the bills the fact that such charges were made and stated that if the Controller did not deem them proper they could be deducted from the bills; that no such deduction was made, and that he, therefore, was led to believe that it was proper to charge for women in such cases, in our opinion the present officers of the New-York Infant Asylum have not been guilty of any intentional wrongdoins.

Mrs. Mary Ehrhardt, thirty-four years old, roprietor of a fashionable boarding house at No. 177 Columbia Heights, Brooklyn, while walking along the Heights at 11 o'clock last evening, was met by August Dominquez, a Cuban cigar manufacturer, of No. 146 Willow-st., Brooklyn, who had been a boarder in her house until a week ago, and persistent in his attentions to her. Dominquez attempted to speak to Mrs. Ehrhardt, but she waved him off and started on her way. She had hardly moved more than a few feet when he sprang toward her and threw the contents of a bottle of carbolic acid into her face and on to her neck and arms. She screamed from the pain and the man ran away.

GOOD WORKS AND RELIGION.

CHURCH PAPERS. PHILANTHROPY IN THE PRO-CATHEDRAL

A CONTROVERSY BEGUN BETWEEN

PARISH-CRITICISM FROM THE PARISH OF ST. MARY THE VIRGIN-A DEFENCE OF LABORS AMONG THE POOR

A controversy as to the true definition of religion appears to have arisen between the ritualistic Protestant Episcopal Church of St. Mary the gin, on one hand, and the Pro-Cathedral, in Stanton-st., the ecclesiastical home of the Bishop, on the other. The contention seems to be as to whether the good works carried on under the direct authority of Bishop Potter by the Pro-Cathedral constitute pure religion. This interesting question was raised by "The Arrow," a monthly parochial paper, published nder the auspices of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin by a society connected with that parish ber of that publication was an editorial article, under the head of "Pro-Cathedral," which said: under the head of "Pro-Cathedral," which said:

We notice in the "Pro-Cathedral Record" that the beautiful processional cross presented to the Cathedral corporation and accepted on its behalf by Bishop Potter, bore the Catholic legend "Requiescat in pace," this prayer for the dead being for the repose of the soul of the Rev. Dr. Miles, some time a worker in the Stanton Street Mission. The prayer on the cross is good, but we would be better pleased if prayer on the knees formed a more prominent feature of the Pro-Cathedral. 'The Arrow" then goes on to outline the Pro-

Cathedral work scheduled for every day in the week, excepting Sunday. It is seen that those days are mainly given over to kindergarten classes men's clubs, choir rehearsals, brotherhood meetings, visits of physicians and gymnastic exercises and the article closes with the comment that "this may be philanthropy, but it is not religion."

The organ of the Pro-Cathedral parish, which is stricture in the present month's issue. After thank-ing its contemporary in somewhat caustic terms for the attention it has drawn to the work of the Pro-Cathedrai, "The Record" adds:

for the attention it has drawn to the work of the Pro-Cathedral, "The Record" adds:

We are not ashamed of being philanthropic, although the title may be a disgrace in the select circles in which the editor of "The Arrow" has received his religious instruction. To us philanthropy and religion are very closely akin. The love of God that does not manifest itself in love to man is not worth having. We believe that the whole of man belongs to God-body, soul and spirit. We believe that we are doing tiod's service when we give His children a chance to keep their bodies clean and strong and healthy, and their minds pure and elevated and refined in the midst of so much that tends to make them unclean and unhealthy and impure and degraded.

We believe that the money, the time, the effort which we spend in the attempt to uplift the lives of the people of this nelghborhood, to inspire in them nobler thoughts and higher ideals and truer acts, give God more pleasure and are of more use in the world than the same money and time and effort spent in the erection of a beautiful church in which we might worship God in splendor and ease—in which, surrounded by all the accessories that appeal to our most refined tastes, we would be apt to forget the misery and sorrow of God's children in the world, and think we are doing God's service when we are really pleasing ourselves.

The article then quotes a few lines from Leigh Hunt's "Abou Ben Adhem" and continues as fol-

Leigh Hunt may not be an authority in the office of "The Arrow," but we feel assured that the Bible is. If the editor will look at the end of the first chapter of the Epistle of St. James, he will find a definition of religion that seems to us authoritative: "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this: to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world." To be sure, the editor of "The Arrow" may agree with Martin Luther that the Epistle of St. James is an epistle of straw. We are convinced that if he will give it a little more study he will come to the opinion that our work here is not only philanthropy, but also religion.
